

THE DEATH RECORD.

Those Who Have Been Called Home.

FINAL SUMMONS

Comes to Old and Young—Mrs. Elizabeth Gates, Mrs. John B. Smith, Mrs. John Conner, Joseph Mowery.

Friday morning Mrs. Elizabeth Gates died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. W. H. Speer, of Altoona. The deceased was born at Woodbury, this county, on September 10, 1831, and was a daughter of Philip and Jane Chamberlain. In 1851 she was united in marriage to William Gates and shortly afterward they moved to Reading, Pa., where they remained until 1873. Six sons and one daughter survive her: Calvin, residing in Montana; William, in Mexico; Thomas, Harry and John, of Bedford; Scott, and Mrs. Letitia Speer, of Altoona. Mrs. Gates was a member of the Methodist Episcopal church. The body was taken to Six Mile Run Sunday morning for interment.

Mrs. John B. Smith, of Rawlins, Md., died early Saturday morning. She was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Gardill and was born at New Baltimore in 1837. In 1851 she married John B. Smith, of this place. Mr. and Mrs. Smith removed to Rawlins four years ago. Mrs. Smith is survived by her husband and six children—Ella, Anna, Rita, Rosa, Lucile and Bertha. She was a member of the Catholic church, a kind and loving wife and mother and was esteemed by all who knew her. The body was brought to Bedford Monday afternoon and interred in the Bedford cemetery.

Mrs. John Conner died at a Fifth street boarding house in Cumberland on August 19. Mrs. Conner was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Bailey, of New Paris, and at the time of her death was twenty years old. Her mother died when she was an infant and she was reared by Mrs. Mary Eaton, of Cumberland. About a year ago she married John Conner. The funeral services were held Thursday morning in St. Patrick's church, Cumberland.

Joseph Mowery, an old soldier, died at the almshouse Tuesday evening. Mr. Mowery was a member of Capt. M. H. Jolly's company—C, 224 Regiment, Pennsylvania Cavalry. He enlisted in July 2, 1863, and was discharged on January 1, 1864, at Charlottesville, Va. He subsequently re-enlisted in the three years' service. The deceased was born at Charlottesville thirty-four years ago. At the body was interred in the Bedford cemetery yesterday.

Mrs. Jane C. Claiborne, of the Cumberland News of August 14 says: "Mrs. Jane C. Claiborne, aged eighty-three years, widow of the late pianist Claiborne, died. They were among the places, farmers who first settled along the Ray's hill mountain in Bedford county, Pa. She was the mother of Miss Mary Claiborne, of Cumberland."

Eugene Diehl, the two-year-old son of Elmer Diehl, of Charlottesville, died yesterday morning, of cholera infantum.

The Democrats of Huntingdon county on Saturday nominated the following ticket: Legislature, Harry W. Pettkin, associate judge, David McCahan, register and recorder, T. J. Hatcher, county commissioner, H. H. Davis and W. B. Wilson, prothonotary, David B. Heck, county auditor, Harrison Speck and George W. Vocem, County Chairman. W. M. Henderson was re-elected. The offices of district attorney, county treasurer, prothonotary and one member of the legislature were left open with the understanding that they will be filled by the anti-fusion Republicans, thus forming a fusion county ticket.

A feature of the music at the Springs is the singing of Mrs. Harriet E. Pomeroy, of Philadelphia, whose strong and sweet soprano voice is heard to good advantage in the open air concert. Her rendering of the "Creole Lover's Song," by Dudley Buck, and "The Angels' Serenade," by Hage, with violin obligato, won deserved applause last Sunday evening. The music is very much enjoyed by many of the town's people as well as by those stopping at the Springs hotel and the grounds and porches are crowded with an appreciative audience whenever the orchestra plays.

John Dull and Gertrude Plegle, of Point. Shannon Yarnell and Sadie King, of Pavia. W. S. Cartwright, of Hopewell borough, and Golda Fink, of Hopewell township. Woodbury and Carrie Cumpson, of Woodbury township.

On August 11, at the Methodist Episcopal parsonage, Bedford, Albert A. Brett and Miss Martha M. Evans, both of Bedford, were united in wedlock by Rev. George Leidy.

On Tuesday evening, August 19, at the home of the bride, Harry L. Owens, of Meyersdale, and Miss Martha E. Trout, of Bedford, were united in marriage by Rev. George Leidy, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church.

Home News in a Roundabout Way. Mr. F. W. Gower, editor of the Hawkeye, Bedford, Pa., has resigned to accept a position in Philadelphia. He will be succeeded by Mr. John M. Bain, formerly of Bedford now of New York.—Cumberland News.

ONE GAME LOST, ONE WON.

Bedford's Seniors Beat the Juniors Yesterday.

Friday afternoon, for the second time this season, the Dudley baseball nine trounced the home team. The game was played on the Bedford Springs meadow, the score being: Bedford, 4; Dudley, 5. Stack, of Schellburg, pitched for the locals and struck out ten men. Greenwald, Dudley's pitcher, made a remarkable record, striking out sixteen of his opponents. He was given eight-gilled support by his catcher, Hoover, who made two fine catches of foul flies. The action of Dudley's battery was as smooth and steady as clockwork and the whole team played well. Brilliant catches were made by Second Baseman Reeder, of Dudley; Fielders Billman, Kerster and Davidson, of Bedford. Second Baseman Gaphart, of the home team, was injured in a collision with a base runner and was compelled to retire. Draper Smith took his place. Catcher Irvine had one of his fingers dislocated, but stuck to his post. The score follows:

	B.	H.	O.	A.	E.
Lewis, 2b.	0	1	0	0	0
Davidson, 3b.	0	2	0	0	0
Greenwald, p.	0	0	2	0	1
Totals	4	11	2	3	1

Bedford's Seniors beat the Juniors Tuesday afternoon. The Juniors of Bedford scored their second victory over the Everetts boys. This contest also took place on the Springs meadow. The score was 23 to 9. Percy Smith was in the box for Bedford and carved and twisted the ball in a way that would have won the approbation of the mighty Babe Wadell if that premier pitcher had been present. Fred Horne, of Bedford, caught his usual excellent game. Bishop, of the Everetts, made a home run. Bedford's center fielder, Harold Smith, pulled down a fly ball that looked like a three-bagger.

The Outing Party. Wednesday of last week was Grand Army Day at the Osterburg picnic and many old soldiers were on the grounds. Hon. J. M. Reynolds, of Bedford, made an address. Thursday was the banner day as far as attendance is concerned. It is estimated that seven or eight thousand people were in attendance. The averages made by some of the marksmen in the shoot on Wednesday and Thursday were as follows: W. A. Holderbaum, of Cressa, 57; R. E. Tush, of South Fork, 50; R. Longenecker, of Bedford, 50; J. P. Trego, of Tyrone, 75; Dr. H. B. Brightbill, of Saxton, 70; W. H. Holler, of Mason's Choice, 71; Dr. A. H. Weller, of New Baltimore, 64; A. Jones, of Weyant, 53; J. Ake, of Johnstown, 47.

On Friday, "Sunday School Day," Rev. H. B. Townsend, of Bedford, made an excellent address on "The Mission of the Twentieth Century Sunday School" and Rev. C. B. Miller, of Everett, also delivered a fine address on "The Home to the Sunday School." The evening the Rev. preacher, E. Talavage Witt, delivered an interesting sermon. The music furnished during the Osterburg and Cressa bands during the week was greatly appreciated by the large audiences.

Harry Camp, of Mann's Choice, who was arrested on August 15 on the charge of larceny from the person, was taken to Mann's Choice for a hearing on Monday. After taking the evidence, Judge J. E. Seifert re-committed the defendant and he was brought back to Port Gates. It is alleged that the prisoner robbed Charles Joseph, an Assyrian, who was selling goods for Cassan Moore, of Hyndman, on August 1. It is said that Camp met the merchant on the road near Mann's Choice and demanded his money. The latter was badly frightened. He dropped his pack and fled to Hyndman. He subsequently returned to the scene of the hold-up, but the goods were gone. He afterward identified Camp as his assailant and the latter was taken into custody.

A Delightful Excursion. The members of the Richardson Art Embroidery club will long remember a delightful excursion taken by them Tuesday evening by way of celebrating their organization, about a year ago. Sixteen ladies took a drive over the famous Hickory Bottom road, stopping at the handsome new home of Mr. Job Luller for supper, and were royally entertained by the hostess. It was almost impossible to tell all the good things prepared for us, but we spent an hour in making the effort. Music, conversation and dancing were the after-supper amusements, until the beautiful full moon appeared over the mountain top, when we wound up the happy event by a moonlight ride to our homes, all enthusiastic over the charming manner in which we were entertained by Mrs. Luller. May they all live a long time to enjoy their new home, is the sincere wish of the ladies' club.

A Handsome Medicine Wagon. D. W. Kean recently built a handsome, up-to-date medicine wagon for J. H. Hafer and on Monday (day) of Schellburg, taking a supply of Celebrated Chalybeate Cure, left for a canvass of Somerset county. Mr. Colvin reports that he is meeting with splendid success and that his neat little wagon attracts a great deal of attention.

Notice to Voters. The general election this year will be held on Tuesday, November 4 (the Tuesday next following the first Monday). To qualify a person to vote he must be registered at least sixty days before the election. Examine the registry list and see that your name is entered thereon.

QUAY'S RETURN.

The Boss Hastens From the Maine Woods to Muzzle Cousin Sam.

PENNYPACKER'S PRATTLE

Alarms the Old Man and He Seeks the Judge's Bar and Goes Like Some Pointers.

Special Correspondence of THE GAZETTE. HANNOVER, August 19.—Taking a liberal supply of bait and the favorite remedy for snake bites, Quay hied himself away three weeks ago to the Maine woods, and had it published broadcast that he would not return until after September 1, when he would straightway open the campaign. In the meantime his royal highness was supposed to be as inaccessible to human kind as if he had become an inhabitant of Mars. But one or two favorite ennuis were to be let into the secret of his whereabouts in order that his Websterian intellect might have rest and his fishing be undisturbed by vulgar office seekers.

If there is anything the Quay dislikes more than criminal actions that obligate him to make a public statement of limitations it is office seekers. Having been their chief all his life he well knows what a contemptible, hypocritical, thieving lot they are as a whole. He doesn't like an office seeker. He likes men who will bend their backs to do his dirty bidding, and instead of seeking for office as a reward, simply keep on bending their backs until he is ready to invite them into a place he has prepared for them and then step down and out without a whimper when he says "Go."

Suddenly he dropped back into civilization, all unexpected and out of breath. He had learned of some mysterious party, in a pipe dream, that his protégé, Cousin Sam, had taken another bite; that he had broken loose and stopped over, making what was already a bad mess a great deal worse. He lost no time in seeking his cousin's ear and gave him, with variations, the advice he once gave Governor Beaver: "Dear Sammy, don't talk. Just keep still and look wise; I'll do all the talking."

Pennypacker's first break was bad enough, but to jump in again and declare that he was sober when he compared Quay with Shakespeare, and that after more mature deliberation he is satisfied that his Cousin Matt is greater than Webster and Ray, is enough to create the suspicion that he wants to see Quay's clock of defense and that he is willing to do his full share of playing the fool and making himself the laughing stock of the nation. So bad was this second break that the Philadelphia Times and the Inquirer, both of which have been trying hard to support the Quay ticket, re-invented it. However, if Charles Quay Smith's stomach doesn't rebel, and he can keep up his crow diet a few weeks more, he will be prepared to say in the Press that Pennypacker is right; that when one goes to know a little of his public services Quay is found to be superior to Webster in intellect, greater than Clay in oratory and managers, and to tower far above Washington in honesty and patriotism. As between Pennypacker and Smith, it is the toss of a penny to decide which occupies the more humiliating position before the public.

No one knows better than Quay that Pennypacker has badly overdone the taffy business. The old man is not a fool, and unless he is in his dotage, he knows as well as anybody that sensible men are simply disgusted at any one who attempts to praise him for anything except what he is and has been for a quarter of a century—an unscrupulous machine boss whose brown trousers have enabled him to maintain his grip and his freedom in spite of his political wickedness. Since Pennypacker has opened the campaign Quay has lost all interest in the Maine woods. He brought with him all his bait and unadvised bite remedy and will spend his vacation at Atlantic City, where he can hear what the wild waves are saying and keep his thumb on Cousin Sam until the time comes to send him on his starting tour over the state to deliver speeches carefully written by some one with more horse sense than he seems to possess. According to the reports, Mr. Quay's Sunday devotions were sadly disturbed by his Christian spirit solely tried during his first Sabbath at the seashore, because of Governor Stone's pig-headedness in refusing to allow Cousin Sam to act as governor a few days in order to get his hand in. Quay undertook to dictate in Cousin Sam's interest what the governor should do in regard to the troops sent to prevent disturbance in the coal field. He became so abusive that the governor told him he could go to the place where "the worm dieth not and the fire is not quenched." The disrespect of the governor for men of the Daniel Henry Webster Clay sort is greatly to be deplored.

We have heard nothing lately in reference to the $30,000 which Quay advertised as having been placed in a "Pittsburgh bank" to bet on Quay's election. Possibly the old man's spiritual adviser has persuaded him, inasmuch as he is the last Buffalo bull on the plains, a dying oak among saplings, that he ought to cease from evil and prepare for his latter end, as the exhorters say. Perhaps he may have heard of the New York fall because he had wagered two boxes of cigars on the election. The case was carried to court and the judge sustained the disfranchisement on the ground that the law prohibiting betting is based on good sense; that the man who bets on the result of an election is tempted to bribe voters and that betting is but a vicious species of gambling.

Of course no one familiar with Mr. Quay could for a moment suppose that he could be induced to bribe any body nor would he be guilty of violating the law by gambling, but for some reason the matter of the $30,000 which he is just dying to bet is very quiet at present. Perhaps he has read the order of Superintendent of Police Mc-

Aluse declaring that he will arrest all persons in the city of Pittsburgh who indulge in betting. Possibly, but not likely, he has read the election laws of Pennsylvania, which declare that any person who shall make any wager or bet upon the result of any election within this Commonwealth, or shall offer to make such bet or wager either by verbal proclamation thereof, or by any written or printed advertisement, challenge or invite any person or persons to make such bet or wager, upon conviction thereof he or they shall forfeit and pay three times the amount so bet or offered to be bet.

"I shall be the duty of every judge, sheriff, mayor, alderman, justice of the peace or constable knowing of any person having offered against this act to commence proceedings against the person so offending and it shall be the duty of grand juries of the respective counties within this Commonwealth to make a presentment of all such offenses coming within their knowledge."

The law also makes it the duty of those in charge of the poor to bring action in cases of a wage and collect the money for the benefit of the poor. Now since their attention is called to it no doubt all the Pittsburgh judges, and other officers, named in the act, will tangle over one another to perform their sworn duty and bring proceedings to collect $60,000 from the Hon. Matthew Stanley Quay, United States senator from Pennsylvania, for violating the statute law of the Commonwealth. The statute of limitations runs two years against this offense and hence that favorite method of doing one's dirty work, which is resorted to by the Pittsburgh officers as a hurry to do their duty.

This is the man whose proxy the Pittsburgh reformers consider worthy of a place at the head of their ticket. Knowing as they do of his double dealing and general political crookedness for twenty-five years, they make themselves simply ridiculous by endorsing him when they are trying to rid themselves of the very ills which his machine made possible. A reform that picks out the privates of the spoils-men's brigade for punishment and promotes the command general is a travesty on good sense.

George F. Smith. The 29th annual Grangers' picnic exhibition will be held at Williams' Grove the week beginning August 25. The exhibition of farm machinery will surpass that of any former years, and undoubtedly will be the greatest ever held in the eastern states. The beauty of the exhibit will be that so much of it will be running. Five saw mills, two shingle mills, at least 15 traction engines and threshers, together with numerous folder cutters and other small machinery, will make the grand old grove a hive of industry. A splendid stock exhibit is promised. During the week the platform of the large auditorium, which seats 3,500 people, will be occupied by prominent Grangers, agriculturists, educators and politicians. Wednesday will be the day for the election of officers. The evening entertainments will consist of operetta and illustrated lectures. A special effort will be made to put on an up-to-date midway, embodying the best of late attractions obtainable.

There's No Place Like Home. LUKA, Md., AUGUST 18. EDITOR GAZETTE:—I have not received "Old Glory," THE GAZETTE, as promised. "This is a pretty good country, but cannot come up to old Pennsylvania. I love the old home my birth place; best of all, my girl, who is still and tall, and her face, which makes me think of Home, Sweet Home, this fall." Moral: Send paper soon.

John H. Miller, who had been very ill recovered recently, went to work on Monday, but met with a painful accident. He was repairing a very heavy piece of shafting when it fell on his left foot, smashing his toes and injuring his instep. Mr. Miller is laid up for repairs at present. He is employed by Luke Bros., foundrymen, of Piedmont, W. Va.

Harry McMillin, of Bedford, met with an accident while working at his trade, that of a bricklayer. A scaffold gave way, letting him fall about 15 feet to the ground. He sustained several injuries. He is getting along very well at present. Mr. McMillin was employed by Luke Bros. Pulp and Paper Mill company, of Luke, Md.

Damage to mines and machinery.....	5,000,000
Cost of maintaining troops in field.....	150,000
Total.....	$13,000,000

President Frank Irvine. The St. John's Men's club, of Lower Merion township, met in the parish building of St. John's church Monday night and elected these officers for the ensuing six months: President, Frank Irvine, vice-president, James Wheat; secretary, George Graham; treasurer, Dr. John Kimball. It is likely the club will establish a beneficial association in connection with the other work.—Philadelphia Press.

Mr. Irvine is a brother of J. Reed and Maurice Irvine, of Bedford, and formerly lived here. He is secretary of the St. John's church, secretary and treasurer of the Keystone Box Manufacturing company and one of the brightest and busiest young men in the Quaker City.

"Common Talkers." A clergyman who much surprised one day at receiving a basket of potatoes from an old woman in his parish, with a message saying that as he had remarked in his sermon on the previous Sunday that some "common talkers" (commentators) were not agreed with him, she had sent him some real good ones.—Exchange.

A WEEK'S HISTORY.

Happenings of the Past Seven Days.

THE IMPORTANT EVENTS

Collected From All Quarters of the Globe and Condensed For Busy Readers—News Items.

Five persons lost their lives in a New York locomotive house fire on Tuesday. It is reported that the wheat crop of Northwestern Canada this year will be 60,000,000 bushels, a 15 per cent. increase over last year.

By an explosion in the Delaware pulp mills, at Wilmington, on Wednesday ten persons were killed, five are missing and may be dead in the ruins and several who were injured may die.

Gen. Russell A. Alger, ex-secretary of war and of "combated beef" notoriety, has announced himself as a candidate for United States senator from Michigan, to succeed Senator James McMillan, deceased.

During the Russian military maneuvers at St. Petersburg on Tuesday a squadron of cavalry making a charge dashed headlong into the river, being unable to hold their horses. Fifty were drowned.

Overcome by an insane impulse to murder her one-month-old babe because she believed it was deformed, Mrs. James Bernack, 31 years old, at Littleton, Ind., on Tuesday slaughtered the little one, and then cut her own throat.

G. Ashman Miller, who was elected treasurer of Huntington county in 1871 and at one time was one of the most conspicuous Democrats in that county, died at his home in Huntington on Tuesday. He was aged 84 years.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fair, Americans, were returning to Paris from Trouville on Thursday of last week when their automobile swerved and crashed into a tree. Both were killed. The chauffeur became insane as a consequence of the shock.

County Tax Collector Elway recently caused the arrest of two young men of Altoona for not paying their poll or occupation tax. When the prisoners were taken into the jail they were taken to the tax collector's office and were obliged to pay several dollars extra as costs.

In a clash between striking mine workers and deputies at Nesquehoning on Monday Patrick Sharp, a striker, was shot and killed almost instantly by a deputy. A deputy named Harry McMillen was arrested, charged with the killing of Sharp, and was taken to the county jail at Mauch Chunk.

Rev. Dr. M. W. Sweeney, pastor of the Bellevue (Pittsburgh) M. B. church, committed suicide Thursday evening of last week by severing the arteries of his wrists. His mind had become unbalanced from sickness and overwork. He was 38 years of age and had been actively engaged in the ministry for 14 years. The state of Alabama has attached the estate of Francis O. Randolph in the $750,000 estate left by Commodore Thomas Corbin. Randolph was judge of the probate court of Montgomery county and is charged with embezzling $25,000. He fled to Columbia, where he is now reported to be taking an active part in the revolution against Venezuela.

A despatch from Yokohama, Japan, says that the little island of Terishima was overwhelmed by a volcanic eruption between August 13 and 15. All the inhabitants, numbering 150 persons, were undoubtedly killed. The island is covered with volcanic debris and all the houses on it have disappeared. Terishima is one of a chain of islands extending between the Benin islands and Honshu, the biggest island of Japan.

Jacob Anderson, a farmer living near Salina, Kan., on Tuesday, in a fit of despondency, drowned his four children in a cistern and then shot himself with a revolver. Anderson is still alive, but probably will die. Financial matters had affected his mind. The eldest child was six years old and the youngest four months. Anderson left a note on a table notifying the mother, who was away from home when the deed was committed, that the children could be found in the cistern.

An unsuccessful attempt was made to assassinate ex-Governor Robert E. Pattison last week. Some unknown person sent him a package containing several pounds of gunpowder in a concentrated and highly explosive form. When the parcel was inspected by Mr. Pattison he thought it contained samples of a new kind of fuel which is about to be placed on the market by a company of which he is the attorney. The ex-governor did not test the stuff and thus escaped injury.

Robert R. Remington committed suicide at the Newport Reading Room, Newport, R. I., on Monday by shooting himself three times in the head. Mr. Remington's reported engagement to Miss May Van Allen, so the gossip runs, was broken several days ago, and it was brooding over his disappointment which is believed to have influenced the young man to take his life. He was a member of Remington Brothers' advertising agency, with branches in New York and Pittsburgh.

Good Roads' Convention. The Washington Post says: "The office of public inquiries of the department of agriculture will take part in a good roads' convention, to be held at Cumberland, Md., August 23. A section of the old national pike near Frostburg will be reconstructed under the direction of experts of the office of public road inquiries. A portion of the Bedford road leading out of Cumberland will also be improved. In this object lesson road work the government will furnish the materials and labor, an appropriation of $5,000 having been made for that purpose."

Bought Bedford Horses. C. W. Thompson was a Bedford visitor on Monday. While over there he purchased a couple of horses, one for use in his delivery wagon, and one for a driving horse.—Meyersdale Commercial.

SENATORIAL CONFERENCE.

Each Candidate Resolves the Support of His Own County—Headlock Unbroken.

All the senatorial conferences of the 36th district, except those from Somerset county, two of whom were banking in the breezes at Atlantic City, where Quay is rusticated, convened at the Arandale Wednesday night. Owing to the absence of the "Frosty Sons of Thunder" no action was taken and the conference adjourned until Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. When the "meeting" was called to order, yesterday all of the delegates were present.

Several ballots were taken, but, as heretofore, every candidate received the votes of the representatives from his county and the deadlock was not broken. The conference adjourned until 4:45 yesterday evening.

The conference of the three counties are J. H. Jones, Esq., Prof. L. J. McGroger and Postmaster J. C. Chamberlain, Bedford; Hon. W. S. Alexander, Peter Morgan and J. Findlay Johnston, Fulton; J. G. Ogle, Esq., P. F. Black and W. T. Hobbsall, Somerset.

The candidates are D. Hunter Foster, Fulton; J. W. Endale, Somerset, and Dr. W. C. Miller, Bedford. At the conference in Somerset each aspirant received the votes of the conferees from his county.

The officers of the conference are J. G. Ogle, chairman; J. Findlay Johnston and Prof. L. J. McGroger, secretaries.
